

Services to help you plan and save!

Don't be a prisoner to the high cost of energy next winter. Enroll now in one of two money-saving programs from Consolidated Gas, your local gas cooperative. In past years, these programs have saved cooperative members as much as 50¢ per gallon!

Pre-Buy Program – Purchase your propane for the 2010-2011 winter heating season now, while supplies last, at a special “Pre-Buy” price, so you're fully protected from fluctuating energy prices!

Price Protection Program – Take advantage of having a guarantee that limits the highest price you pay for propane for the 2010-2011 heating season. If Consolidated Gas's price should go lower, you get the lower price. Now that's a great guarantee!

Letters for both programs are included in this mailing. Sign up soon because these two money-saving programs are only available through July 30, 2010!

The cost of shopping around

Shopping for a bargain is one of America's favorite pastimes. Looking for the best propane price is also common among consumers but bargain hunting with regard to propane has pitfalls and potential consequences. It may sound odd that shopping around for the cheapest gas price could be potentially dangerous, but the fact is it is a reality. It's also a matter of comfort and family warmth during unseasonably cold weather. Price shopping isn't bad by any stretch of the imagination but because propane companies are able to track customer use through computer programs tailored to the propane industry, they can more accurately forecast when users will need a delivery of propane. If a user gets propane from another company because they save a few bucks, that particular customer's usage history will be thrown off completely and forecasting will be useless. Not to mention, the cheapest price does not always imply the safest or best service. An ongoing relationship with an established propane company is an essential link in the overall picture of safety and service.

In conclusion, check the safety records of propane companies before you buy. Ask your propane company for information about their safety practices, not just their price. Saving a few bucks is a good thing but are you willing to place the comfort of your family at risk just because you found a cheaper propane price.
